WHEREAS, Williams syndrome is a complex genetic disorder that occurs in approximately one out of every 10,000 births and is a commonly known genetic cause of pulmonary stenosis; and

WHEREAS, Williams syndrome affects males and females with equal frequency and affects all races and ethnicities; and

WHEREAS, Williams syndrome can cause improper cardiovascular development, often resulting in cardiac defects, which are the major cause of death for individuals with the syndrome; and

WHEREAS, Williams syndrome also causes cognitive and learning disabilities as well as behavioral difficulties, such as attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder and struggles with controlling mood regulation; and

WHEREAS, The developmental, medical, and behavioral characteristics of Williams syndrome cause many affected individuals to require constant and lifelong supervision; and

WHEREAS, Studies have shown that there is a high cardiac morbidity rate for individuals with Williams syndrome; and

WHEREAS, There is no known cure for Williams syndrome; and

WHEREAS, Early diagnosis of Williams syndrome allows families to access treatment, assistive services, therapies, and support from health professionals, advocacy organizations, and other families who have loved ones with the syndrome; and

WHEREAS, While beneficial programs, such as therapies and social training, are improving the quality of life for individuals with the syndrome and offer new hope to families, many difficult symptoms associated with Williams syndrome remain untreated; and

WHEREAS, Increased research into Williams syndrome can lead to a better understanding of the disorder, more effective treatments, and an eventual cure for Williams syndrome, and in a time where research is under threat, the importance of medical research is greater than ever; and

WHEREAS, More funding, attention, and research toward Williams syndrome will likely improve our understanding of common public perceptions of genetic disorders, including intellectual disabilities and physical differences; and

MOTION

Representative Windhorst submitted the following written motion.

Motion to Expunge

I move to expunge from the House record the Friday, May 16th comments of Representative Kelly Cassidy with respect to her response to some earlier Points of Personal Privilege of other members of the House of Representatives, in which she stated the following:

"It's a day that ends in-Y, and therefore my colleagues on the other side of the aisle feel the need to share their obsession with childrens' genitalia once again.

We are grown adults, and we are picking on kids because you are obsessed with childrens' genitalia.

And how do you propose we address the inevitable trauma from sexually assaulting every child in a bathroom and locker room inspecting their genitals.

You all need to get over yourself and need to get a hobby that doesn't involve obsessing over kids' genitals."

The remarks should be expunged from the record on the grounds that they are injurious and offensive to the citizens of Illinois, and are inappropriate to this Floor as they are in direct violation of the House Rules and Robert's Rules of Order Newly Revised.
